Clinton Reudebush, who presided at the People's party convention Wednesday, was in the room and was invited to make a speech. Mr. Reudebush talked for several minutes, giving the history of the Reudebush family for several generations, and not forgetting to declare that he had always been a Republican. He called President Harrison a traitor and congratulated the meeting on having the courage to endorse the People's candidate, [illegible] that they were not the very best [illegible] party could have named.

A delegate moved that the action of the Beaver News in [illegible] be endorsed. There was some [illegible] and finally two [illegible] answered "aye." There were no negatives, but the [illegible] so weak that the [illegible] into a laugh.

DEAF AND BLIND

The State Institution in This City Has Begun Its Work.

The state school for the deaf and blind opened on Wednesday and everything is now running smoothly. The total enrollment this year is 133, of which two are from Wyoming and six from Idaho. At the same time last year the enrollment was only from 85 to 90.

There have been a few changes in the faculty this year. Mrs. C. C. Wynn, who has been teaching the band in this school ever since that department was added nine years ago, has resigned and her place has been filled by Miss Mary F. Wright, who has been teaching in the Ohio school for the blind for the past nine years.

Mr. J. A. Tillinghast was engaged by the board last year and was given a year's leave of absence to attend the normal department of the National Deaf-Mute college at Washington. Mr. Tillinghast is the son of deaf parents, though a hearing person himself, and was thus brought up in a thorough and appreciative knowledge of the sign language. He is a graduate of one of the leading educational institutions of the country, and with his special training, he is regarded as an acquisition for the school. He will have charge of the intermediate grade.

Miss Prudence E. Burchard who has been connected with the Rome, N.Y., Institute for the Deaf and has had a special training as an articulation teacher, has been engaged as an extra teacher in the articulation department.

Mrs. Lena B. Elder, who was for twelve years matron in the Jackson, Ill., Female college, has been engaged as matron. Her daughter, Miss Edith Elder, will be superintendent's clerk, and visitor's attendant, an officer that has been needed for some years.

The regular course of study in the school has been improved and corrected to conform with the most recent ideas concerning the education of the deaf. The industrial departments will be continued with the same instructors as last year. The fire department will be reorganized and the blind boys' band has begun its practice again for the year.

The principal improvement for the year will be the new girls' dormitory building. There are thirty men now at work on it and it will be finished in ten days. It will relieve the overcrowded condition of the old dormitories and will give the scholars enough room for the first time in years. The building contains dormitories for the smaller girls, and bed rooms for the large girls, rooms for the supervisors and matrons, for Mr. and Mrs. Ray and for some of the officers. It is heated by steam, lighted by electricity and ventilated by large flues with strong currents induced by steam coils. The plunge baths, bath tubs and all [illegible] arrangements are in a [illegible] building in the rear, so that there will never be any polluted air in the sleeping rooms. The building is of lava stone, finished in hard wood throughout and cost about $25,000.

The Ninth general assembly will be asked for $13,000 to build and equip a building for the industrial departments. These departments are already an actual source of revenue to the school beside being a great aid to the students. There is now a man in Idaho Springs who had his eyes blown out in a mine explosion who learned to make brooms at this school and is now supporting himself very nicely by his trade. Other graduates are now occupying self supporting positions.

The school will make a large exhibition at the World's Fair, even better than the one which was awarded a first prize at the Paris exposition. It will consist of cabinet work, needle work, art, brooms, mattresses, etc.

Option on the Ophir.

An announcement was made public yesterday that is of great interest to Cripple Creek and its mines. It is to the effect that Mr. J. J. Hagerman, who has been one of the most successful mining men in Colorado, has secured important interests in the camp. Mr. Hagerman has secured an option for ninety days on a controlling interest in the Ophir Mining company. The company was stocked for $[illegible] at one dollar per share and Mr. Hagerman has an option on over 100,000 shares of the stock. It is stated that he has had experts in the camp for some time and finally after the most thorough investigation, decided upon the Ophir. The claims of this company are near Lawrence and are the Dead Pine and Carbonate Queen. The best of mining engineers will be put to work on the property and the work will be pushed rapidly in developing it.

The shaft of the Dead Pine is down seventy-five feet and on the Carbonate [illegible] a depth of fifty feet has been reached. From these claims some wonderfully rich assays have been made at different times, reaching as high as $[illegible] per ton in gold.

The stock of the company has been held at 10 cents for some time with no [illegible], but upon the announcement of the [illegible] yesterday went to [illegible] cents and was quite active.

[illegible] named Kelley has been brought down from Cripple Creek and locked up in the county jail, charged with grand larceny.

OUR CANDIDATES.

Short Sketches of the Lives of the Republican County Candidates.

El Paso county is rich in political timber, and the fact is recognized all over the state, as the politicians usually come here when they wish to pick out a man to make an extraordinarily strong [illegible]. Our county offices have nearly always been filled by men of more than ordinary ability, and the candidates engaged [illegible] are [illegible] following [illegible] of our candidates.

[illegible]

Mr. W. S. Boynt[illegible] was born in Canada. He came to [illegible] in 1870 and worked for two years [illegible] Manitou [illegible] state of that [illegible] partnership [illegible] has grown [illegible] of the largest [illegible] On the 1st of [illegible] to Cripple Creek [illegible] of the C. L. South [illegible] He [illegible] enterprising [illegible] and was [illegible] before the candidacy [illegible]

[illegible]

Mr. Ira Harris, the candidate for county judge, was born in South New Berlin, N. Y., thirty-six years ago. He received his education at Oxford, N. Y., read law at Hillsdale, Mich., and practiced while acting as cashier of a bank at North Adams, Mich., for four years. He then devoted himself exclusively to his practice for three years. He came to this city two years ago and at once took a prominent place among the younger members of the bar. He has since been associated with Mr. F. A. Sabin, as Harris & Sabin, with Mr. J. H. Lewis as Harris & Lewis, and is now in partnership with Mr. S. H. Kinsley as Harris & Kinsley. On the death of Judge Garrison last winter he was appointed deputy district attorney and has since filled the position satisfactorily. Mr. Harris is regarded by his associates at the bar as being eminently fitted for the position he aspires to occupy.

M. M. BALDWIN.

Mr. Moses M. Baldwin, candidate for the legislature, was born in 1844 in Knoxville, Tenn. When the war broke out, he enlisted in the Third Tennessee Union cavalry and served through the war. He came to Colorado in 1876 and went into mining near Leadville. He came to El Paso county twelve years ago and has since been interested in ranching, has kept store and been postmaster. He now lives at Woodland Park and has large interests in Cripple Creek, mostly in the Free Coinage Mining company. He is an entertaining and amusing speaker, a strong G. A. R. man and a staunch Republican worker.

A. L. HUMPHREY.

Mr. A. L. Humphrey, candidate for the legislature, was born in Buffalo, New York, thirty-four years ago. After a common school education he entered a railroad machine shop as an apprentice. Five years ago he came to Colorado and went to work in the Midland shops at Colorado City. He is now the master mechanic of the road, the top of the ladder, which he has climbed on the steady perseverence. Since he has had charge of that department of the road, there has never been the slightest dissatisfaction on the part of the men at their treatment by him. He is a staunch Republican and has been an earnest worker for the party in years past.

C. E. STUBBS.

Mr. C. E. Stubbs, candidate for state senator from the Third district, was born in Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, and is of Quaker descent. He was educated at Eaton academy in that state, and graduated in the law department of the Michigan university. He read law in the office of the Hon. Herr Smith, at one time a prominent lawyer of Pennsylvania. Mr. Stubbs practiced law for a number of years in Pennsylvania, but his health failing in 1871 he removed to Colorado. In 1875 he first came to live in Colorado Springs, where he opened a law office for a short time, but soon after engaged in the sheep raising business, in which he has been quite successful. Mr. Stubbs has also been largely interested in mining ever since he came to Colorado. When Judge Helm was elected judge of the Fourth district, he was serving as state senator from this district, and Mr. Stubbs was appointed to fill his unexpired term. This is the only public office that Mr. Stubbs has ever held with the exception of a term in the city council as alderman from the First ward. He has always been an earnest and efficient worker in the Republican party, and it was largely due to his efforts as chairman of the county central committee last year that the ticket had such a sweeping victory.

J. E. REYNOLDS.

Hon. J. E. Reynolds, candidate for member of the lower house of the Ninth general assembly, is 48 years of age and was born in Pennsylvania. He has been in Colorado for nineteen years and has for many years engaged in ranching. Eleven years ago he went into the lumber business and is now the president of the Reynolds-McConnell Lumber company of this city. He also owns two large ranches on the Divide. Mr. Reynolds was elected by a large majority to the Eighth general assembly and his course there was so satisfactory that his renomination was a matter of course. He is a prosperous business man, a genial friend and is universally liked.

The Y. W. C. T. U., known as the "Ys," celebrate their first year's anniversary by a meeting at the First Baptist church this evening at 7:30. Miss Ida C. Clothier of Boston, closely identified and heartily endorsed by all prominent workers among young people in the Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Christian Endeavor, Kings Daughters, and W. C. T. U., will deliver an address on the theme "Dead Yet Living."

Arthur Dennis, a boy who has given his parents and the police much trouble by his pranks was taken back to the reform school at Golden by Superintendent Hatch, last night. Dennis was released from the school on parole a few months ago, and he will now serve out two and a half years on the old sentence.

CRIPPLE CREEK LETTER.

From the Regular Gazette Correspondent in the [illegible] County Gold Fields.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Sept. 10.—The articles of the Canon City and Cripple Creek Railway company which filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state on Wednesday, consist of Eben Smith, C. T. Harkness, S. H. Hastings, [illegible] Rockefeller, [illegible] Norris, Charles Herkel, Robert Gibson and David Wood. The capital stock of the company is $[illegible]. The road will commence at Canon City and extend to Four Mile creek and from there run into Cripple Creek. The principal office of the company will be in Pueblo. This and the approaching extension of the Midland railroad system is the most important benefit the camp has yet received from outside capital.

The progress of the McCourt group of mines in the new camp on the Canon City road is being watched with the greatest interest. No less than twenty different assays have been made within the last week with satisfactory results. It is learned from Alderman McCourt that several propositions have been made by eastern capitalists and others to develop the property, some of which are now being considered. Mr. Horace Humphrey, an expert stamp mill man and practical miner, was over the ground on Thursday and returned much impressed with the enormous bodies of ore disclosed.

The Canon City and Cripple Creek railroad will cut through the McCourt camp which will possess every advantage from the start; abundant water and timber, railroad facilities and easy access to Canon City, Florence and Pueblo, in addition to the most picturesque location that could be chosen for a town-site.

Some paying ore has been shipped from one of the claims at the base of Mineral hill. The character of the ore on Mineral hill lying north of the Clarendon hotel is very uniform in appearance. It is mostly silicious carrying much white iron, and is understood to be free milling. But little shipping has been done from the lodes on this mountain.

The shaft on the Buena Vista is 200 feet in depth.

The following mineral surveys have been approved by the United States surveyor general of Colorado at the Pueblo land office. Fairfax lode, Southerner lode, Legal Tender and La Belle lodes, May Queen placer.

Lawrence is only a six months old camp, and a great number of good looking mines are located in the immediate vicinity. At the recent display of gold ores from the Cripple Creek mining district, on exhibition at the Mining Exchange building in Denver, those of Lawrence and Wilson creek attracted much attention.

The Goldstone Mining company is steadily developing its properties.

The Plymouth Rock will ship a car load of ore to-morrow.

The Gold Dust lode of the Rock Island company is down about sixty feet.

Rents of dwelling or business premises have been very materially reduced in both towns since last spring. Real estate is also held at a much more reasonable figure. Business is reported very quiet and few sales effected. Nevertheless to any visitor to Cripple Creek acquainted with its brief history, two adjoining towns of such proportions as those of Fremont and Cripple Creek must appear typical of western progress and activity. The number of tents has greatly diminished, those being replaced by substantial wooden structures. As regards the mines we see no sign for discouragement, and believe that the camp amply fulfils the promise held out at the commencement of the year, if we consider the limited amount of outside capital that has been thrown into it, and the great number of companies whose operations appear to have been limited to the drawing up of a prospectus. It is useless to disguise the fact which is so much to be regretted that Cripple Creek is heavily handicapped by the orginization of upwards of 200 mining companies, embracing so many valuable claims; which in too many instances are not being developed. The total capitalization of the Cripple Creek mining companies does not fall short of $250,000,000. In order to add five cents a share in the way of dividend to this number of shares, after paying for the upkeep of the mines and meeting current expenses, it would be necessary to ship 1,250,000 tons of ore yielding a net profit of $10 to the ton, or considerably upwards of 100,000 tons of good grade ore per month. Cripple Creek cannot do this. It only illustrates the fact repeatedly noticed in THE GAZETTE that the majority of these companies were immensely over capitalized and will require reorganization to be developed into paying properties, and a sweeping reduction in the original stock capital.

Services at the First Baptist church, corner of Kiowa and Weber streets. The pastor, Rev. Richard Montague, D. D., will preach in the morning. Sunday school at 3 p. m. and Y. P. S. C. E. at 6:30. In the evening the service will be in the interests of the Y. W. C. T. U., when Miss Ida C. Clothier of the national union, a lady of national reputation as a temperance worker and speaker, will make the chief address.

Miss Berger is now so well known in this country, as well as Europe, that it is almost superfluous to point out her excellence as a cornetist in these columns. Master Leon Marx, the phenomenal boy violist, is also connected with the company. He is the happy possessor of a genuine Cremona of 1772, valued at $1,000, which he paid for out of his own earnings with his bow. Miss Donahue, the contralto of the company, is the happy possessor of a voice of such exceptionable range and purity, that it has been described by the press as phenomenal. Miss Stoddard, the pianist, is a graduate of the Chicago musical college, and her work in the difficult art of rendering accompaniments, is especially commended."

Are You Looking For comfortable accommodations for the fall and winter? THE ALTA VISTA, Family Hotel, is better prepared than ever to offer attractions to permanent boarders. Without any reflection upon any hotel or boarding house, the Alta Vista claims to fill a midway place; to possess the best features of both, and to afford greater privacy and independence, greater comforts and conveniences than even good boarding houses can supply, without the annoyances and disturbing bustle of large transient and commercial hotels.

Distinctive hotel features are made as little apparent as possible, while much is introduced to add to the homelike air of the house.

The house is modern, with electric lights and bells, elevator, steam heat, a table which has no superior hereabouts, and efficient service in all departments.

We would be pleased to have everyone looking for comfortable accommodations call and inspect our rooms and learn of the advantages the house has to offer.

Some Quarantine Matters

Among other points which the secretary made in reply to the ... official ... the stopping ... operations was a very insignificant matter as compared with ... the ... cholera and that while the ... of Sandy Hook might affect a few hundred or perhaps a thousand people around there it would be of great benefit to the country at large and he (Secretary Foster) was acting for the American people. Assistant-secretary-of war Grant says nothing has been received at the department indicating an intention on the part of the state board of health of New Jersey to sustain their protest against the use of Sandy Hook as a quarantine station by an oral presentation, as it was stated in a dispatch from Trenton would be done. Nothing has been received additional to the protest of Friday night last and the department officials decide the opinion of the attorney general, given to the president yesterday of the effect of the law of 1890, practically disposes of the case.

As intimated in dispatches from Loon lake, President Harrison is investigating the laws regulating immigration, with a view to suspending it if that be possible. The result of the inquiry will probably be made in a day or two. If it is feasible there may be issued a proclamation covering the case.

The Situation in Hamburg

HAMBURG, Sept 12. Reports concerning the epidemic to-day are more encouraging than at any time in the previous two weeks. There have been 68? fresh cases or ... fewer than yesterday and 123 fewer than on Saturday ... deaths or ... fewer than yesterday, and 49 fewer than on Saturday. The burials to-day have numbered 345. There are this evening ... patients in cholera hospitals and barracks against ... yesterday. The city shows many signs of recovering from the stupor of the last two weeks. Although there is no shopping or pleasure-seeking, the streets have been more populous to-day than yesterday and several ... billiard rooms and cafes, which were closed for want of patronage ... were opened this morning for business.

The expectations of the people, however, are beyond the encouragement given by today's statistics of the plague, and another relapse like that of Saturday would ... the city back to its mourning and silence. The ... cars, which had almost ceased running were started to-day to make half the number of trips made before the epidemic. ... They have been practically empty. The hotels received thirty five strangers from other cities to-day. No efforts have been made to revive the shipping business in the harbor. The fishing vessels are tied to their docks and will remain so, the owners say until October as the demand for fish has been completely extinguished. Only about ... per cent of the usual number of vessels are now loading at this port and few even of these all quota carry full cargoes. The ... report of the municipality was published to-day. The total number of cases is given as 14,100, the number of deaths almost exactly ... The highest death rate is said to have been reached on August 30 when 481 fatal cases were reached. The Hamburg board of health is let down easily in the report which represents that official body as being ... moderate success in its efforts to stay the progress of the plague. The ... dwells upon the evils of using Elbe water and recommend that artesian wells to replace the infected water works, be ... in all parts of the city. The total exodus of citizens to escape infection is estimated to have amounted to 2 ... persons. This is necessarily guess work as only incomplete returns from railway officials are the basis of the estimate. The number has been nearer 45,000 or 50,000 probably. The comment that persons from Hamburg have been treated in other German cities as if they were lepers may be taken as ... The Reading and Its Workmen

PHILADELPHIA, Sept 12.—President McLeod of the Reading road was in New York to-day and the conference with the heads of the different labor organizations on the system will not be held until to-morrow.

P M Arthur chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers who will be one of the conferees and this afternoon that the Brotherhood is prepared to sustain all of its members who may be discharged because of their connection with the brotherhood. Mr Arthur would not say what the outcome would be in case President McLeod persisted in his stand against organized labor. The committee numbers about twenty five and every part of the Reading system is represented. Mr Arthur quoted from the published statement of President McLeod made as follows last Friday. They ask that we modify our rule or discontinue it altogether with reference to the labor organizations. We do not now, employ any new men unless they show that they are not members of the labor organizations and agree that they will not become connected with any such.'

"We are willing to concede," said Mr Arthur, "the right of the company to impose such conditions on us when we enter their service and also that we have the right either to accept or reject them. But when the president of the Reading system calls two men in his office who were not employed under such conditions and had not consequently accepted them, asks them if they are members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and because they tell him the truth and admit that they are, he ... charges them that we declare is unjust that is what he had done and that is our grievance. I put that grievance we will take it up with any railroad in this country."

Will the telegraphers support you?" was asked. "Yes," was the reply. "Will the conductors and brakemen also?" ... All the ... assistance and that is why the chiefs of their organizations are coming here to join in the conference with the officials.

Wilkesbarre is an important railroad center and may be tied up between New York and Buffalo. If a strike is ordered the men here will go out first.

EVENING SESSION

When the committee on credentials reported seating the Patterson delegates from Mesa and Arapahoe counties about 150 delegates arose and left the Mineral Palace in which the convention was being held. They ... in a hall as a straight Democratic convention elected Attorney McDaniel of ... chairman and S. B. White of Denver secretary and then adjourned to meet to-morrow morning for nominations.

Meanwhile the Patterson crowd at the Mineral Palace endorsed the four Weaver electors. They have since been quarreling over the platform. Two reports were presented but the majority of the committee on resolutions insisted that the minority should not be presented or heard. After a bitter contest a motion to that effect was adopted. A free coinage platform was agreed to and the minority were refused a hearing in any shape. This created a most exciting scene and at midnight a turbulent debate is still in progress. Whether nominations will be made for state officers or the nominations will be left to the Populist party is still a matter of conjecture.

[By Associated Press.]

PUEBLO, Sept. 13.—The Democratic state convention met here to-day and was called to order by Chairman Frank P Arbuckle. Thomas J. O'Donnell of Arapahoe was chosen temporary chairman. There were contests in Arapahoe and Mesa counties between the Weaver Democrats and Clevelandites. The committee on credentials after much deliberation reported in favor of seating the Weaver men. This caused an uproar, the Cleveland followers strenuously objecting to being ousted. They held a caucus in a corner of the hall and as a result they decided to bolt the convention. They then left the hall and will hold a convention of their own to-morrow. The Weaver men went right along with their work and endorsed the People's party presidential electors. At this hour (12:30 a. m.) they are considering their platform and will probably complete it and finish the balance of their business before morning.

THEY GAVE IT UP

The convention adjourned sine die after authorizing the state central committee to nominate the state ticket.

Admiral Walker's Orders.

WASHINGTON, Sept 12.—The news telegraphed to-day from New York that the Venezuelan military authorities had arrested foreign merchants in La Guayra and endeavored to force large sums of money from them, was received at the state department several days ago from Consul Hanna and is supposed to have inspired the orders to Acting Rear Admiral Walker to visit that country in the Chicago. An official of the department said this afternoon to a United Press reporter, that the situation demanded a sufficient force to protect the American interests and residents. There was no intention, he said, to interfere in any way with the settlement of the troubles among the Venezuelans themselves but the ... to be compelled to keep hands off Americans and their property. At present, it is said, there is no established government to be recognized as such or that seems to be able itself to protect the residents of the country from assault and pillage by depredatory parties. Along the coast were a number of towns containing foreign residents, including Americans who are subjected to such experiences as are alleged to have befallen those of La Guaira at the hands of General Pepper and his adjutant General Echeverria.

To aid in putting a stop to this system of robbing and extortion by irresponsible and otherwise irresponsible bands of murderers or at least to protect its citizens exposed to them, the United States had decided to send its war ships to Venezuela. The Concord had already arrived, the Kearsarge was expected to reach there to-day, and the Chicago, with Admiral Walker aboard is expected to arrive next Sunday.

Until a mail reaches here from Venezuela the department officials say they do not anticipate receiving any additional information from there. Nothing has been received for several days past.

WHITTIER

Lessons Drawn From the Life of the Quaker Poet, Sunday Evening.

The special Whittier service at the First Congregational church Sunday evening attracted an audience which filled all the seats and chairs placed in the aisles.

Rev William F. Slocum, president of Colorado college, gave some personal reminiscences of Whittier, as he knew him when he, Mr. Slocum was pastor of a church in Amesbury, Mr. Whittier's home. President Slocum described Whittier's old homestead, which is described in the poem, "Snow Bound," and then gave a description of the poet's Amesbury house, with the "garden room," which has been the center of his literary work since 1840 and in which most of his writing was done; the poet's personal appearance, his simplicity in manner and taste. His companions were such men as Emerson, Holmes and Phillips. He took great pleasure in meeting and talking with the simple plain country folk which came to the town. One of his characteristics was the deep interest he took in public affairs. Governor Claflin of Massachusetts said that during the civil war, in the consultations of the most distinguished statesmen and politicians, Whittier's opinion in any matter was always regarded as final. His judgment was so respected.

He was a great lover of books, and took special interest in books of poetry and essays. He was a profound student of theology.

A fact not generally known Mr Slocum said, was that Whittier had a very keen sense of humor, shown in personal interviews with friends.

He led in many respects a lonely life, particularly in later years, but was always cheerful and happy. The speaker had a very warm personal attachment and friendship with Mr. Whittier and spoke very warmly of the value of the friendship to him.

Dr Gregg then preached the regular sermon, taking his text from Psalms 119, 54. "Thy statutes have been my songs in the house of my pilgrimage." He said: "Of that remarkable company of American writers who were living at the time of the outbreak of the civil war, Emerson, Hawthorne, Bryant, Longfellow, Lowell, Whittier, Mrs. Stowe and Holmes only the last two now remain. Of them all, none has been more reverenced and beloved by his countrymen than the modest and gentle spirit whose life and work on earth came last Wednesday to an end.

"Whittier stood in contrast with the eminent men of literature who were his contemporaries in that he alone among them had not received what is called a liberal education. Longfellow, Bryant, Holmes, Emerson and Hawthorne were all college graduates and this earlier culture was supplemented by travel abroad. But Whittier had no schooling beyond what the Haverhill academy supplied and he never crossed the Atlantic. In this latter respect his opportunities of intellectual culture were less than those of Irving and Howells, who are almost the only literary men not college graduates who have won a high place in our literary annals. So Whittier was like Horace Greeley and Abraham Lincoln a man of the people, in the best sense a self made man, fashioned wholly on American soil and more completely than any other of great writers, by American influences. His Quaker faith, to which he always loyally adhered and whose customs he measurably followed helped to invest his life and his work with a distinctive and characteristic flavor. He did not suffer himself to be cramped and burdened in any one of the outward formalisms of his sect. He walked not after its letter but after the spirit. All that was essential and most vital in the testimony of Quakerism lived and wrought in him. The inner light illuminated his own spirit and made him a light enlightening the world."

Mr Gregg then briefly sketched the life of the poet and his fight with the slave powers. He then analyzed closely the character of the poet as shown in his verse, of which he read many extracts, taking them in order as they were written and showing the growth and development of the soul that inspired them.

The story published yesterday to the effect that United States men of war had sailed for Venezuela with orders to interfere in the relations between that nation and Great Britain is highly improbable. It is true that there has been some dispute between the two countries in regard to boundary questions, but it is not to be presumed that it is the intention of Great Britain to force a settlement by the seizure of Venezuela. And although such an act might give rise to serious remonstrance on the part of the United States, and if the remonstrance were disregarded might require the enforcement of the Monroe doctrine even by arms, the mere dread or supposition that such an act was pending would not justify the sending of an armed expedition with orders such as are supposed to have been given to Admiral Walker. A far more likely explanation is to be found in the recent civil contests which have made life unpleasant for foreign residents in more than one South American state. In particular it will be remembered that in Venezuela one of the contending factions recently took political refugees from an American steamer in grave violation of international rights. The administration has done well in sending a portion of our navy to enforce the rights of American citizens there, but no one need believe for a moment that they have gone to precipitate an armed combat with Great Britain.

Extensive preparations are being made for the Grand Valley fair, which is to be held at Rifle this week. Rifle is the center of a large area of fine agricultural land, which is developing rapidly, and which has already taken high rank among the sections of our state. In addition to the improvements in the way of orchards and buildings upon lands which have been long settled, large tracts of new land are being made available for cultivation by extensive ditches. One of the largest of these is being constructed by a company of which Mr. Henry W. Hallett, well known in this city, is the leading spirit. It will irrigate a large tract of the finest fruit lands on the north side of the Grand river below the town of Rifle. There are good reasons for believing that the display of products at the fair will be exceptionally fine, and the occasion will afford an interesting opportunity to see how fast the wilderness is giving place to orchards and gardens in western Colorado.

A vigorous effort should be made to secure the location of the Cigarmakers' National home in this city. This is the first of the trades unions to be stirred to action by the printers, and it in turn is likely to arouse others. We understand that the cigarmakers are favorably inclined towards Colorado Springs, as indeed they have good reason to be, and we trust that the inducements here will be at least equal to those of any other location. In such a case we may trust to our unexcelled situation and our unequalled improvements to turn the scale in our favor.

The reason why Candidate Weaver no longer considers the coinage of gold and silver to be a relic of barbarism is because the silver-men have votes, and some of them are going to be foolish enough to vote for Weaver.

If there are a few of the Democrats in the state who have not sacrificed all their history and principles upon the altar of expediency in the temple of Greenback Weaver, they are making a desperate fight in the state convention as is ... They are, however, in such a hopeless minority that all their efforts seem likely to prove in vain.

In these days of fusion and confusion, it is well to remember that there is a difference between a Bourbon Democrat and a People's party man. The Bourbon never thinks, and the Populist thinks crooked.

A question now exercising western medical experts is, "Is cholera dangerous after frost comes?" And our answer would be, Not if it is kept out of the country.

As a matter of poetic justice America ought to be kept free from the cholera on account of the charity extended to the starving Russian peasants.

Cleveland and Hill have patched up a truce, but the old hole still shows through the darn. It will never stand the wear and strain until election.

The principal occupation of some New Yorkers seems to be an attempt to help cholera run the blockade.

The man who can be proud of being a Democrat these days can be proud of very little.

Manitou is True.

Manitou Journal.

Whatever defections there may be in other parts of El Paso county, this one thing is sure—that Manitou will be true to the Republican party. This town may be relied upon to return her old time majority for the Republican candidates, no matter what may happen. The Populist idea, which seems to have a foothold in some parts of the state has none whatever in Manitou. We have no Populists. Nearly all our voters are Republicans and are true to the faith always.

The Strongest Candidate.

Glenwood Avalanche.

The Republican state convention has placed in the field for governor the very strongest man in the party. Few people will realize this truth more forcibly than those of Glenwood. Those who were in attendance when the state convention met here last fall and placed him in nomination for judge of the supreme court will not readily forget the enthusiasm which the mention of his name aroused. County after county arose to second his nomination and bear witness to his integrity. Judge Helm is a man who has the respect and will command the support of every section of the party. With he in the field Father-in-law Waite will not be in the race.

The Coincident Curse of Gold.

The goldseekers of both America and Australia have a singular but well grounded superstition that the discoverers of hidden treasures are sure to meet with violent deaths. The original proprietors of between thirty-five and forty of the most prosperous gold and silver mines in this country are known to have come to just such ends. Out of the forty or less twelve were shot or stabbed to death in saloon or other broils, five committed suicide, three were engulfed by landslides, five turned murderers or robbers and were caught and executed in various ways, one fell into a boiling spring and had the flesh literally stewed from his bones, while the others have disappeared and no one knows what ever became of them.

George H. Fryer, once the millionaire proprietor of the Fryer Hill mine, committed suicide in Denver after spending the last nickel between himself and starvation. The discoverer of the great Standard mine, in California, was caught and swallowed up in an avalanche. Colonel Story was killed by Indians. William Fairweather, of the famous Alder Gulch mine, died with the "frenzied horrors" after a continuous two years' debauch. "Farrell of Meadow Lake" died with a terrible disease in a San Francisco hospital. The owner of that great mine, the Homestake, became a highwayman and was shot while robbing a stage coach. John Homer tried the same route that Fryer went. "Doughnut Bill," "Ninemile Clarke," "Old Eureka" and many others were killed in saloons. St. Louis Republic.

Finest Carpets in the World.

I mean to make a pilgrimage to Fontainbleau in order to see two wonderful carpets which have been transferred to the palace by the president's orders, and which are said to be the most superb articles of the kind in the world. They were ordered by Napoleon III at the Gobelin manufactory in 1868. They are of colossal dimensions, one being nearly thirty feet square, while the other is eleven yards long and ten yards wide.

It took ten years to complete them, and once finished their extraordinary size caused them to be packed away in the storehouse of Les Gobelins, whence they were not extracted even to be exhibited at the exhibitions of 1878 and 1889. They are the finest articles of the kind that have been produced for the French government since Louis XIV ordered "ninety-three carpets for ceremonies and festivals" to be manufactured at la Savonnerie for the great ballrooms and reception rooms of the Louvre and of Versailles.

The smaller of the two, which has a yellow ground, is set down in the inventory as being worth $40,000, the larger, the ground of which is black, being estimated at $50,000, though the real value of each is stated to be at least double.—Paris Letter.

How Sir Gavan Duffy Looked.

Mrs. Carlyle, in her "Journal," thus describes Sir Charles Gavan Duffy as he looked in 1844 during a visit he paid to "the sage of Chelsea:" "Mr. Duffy quite took my husband's fancy, and mine also to a certain extent. With the coarsest of human faces, decidedly as like a horse's as a man's, he is one of the people that I should get to think beautiful."

Sir Charles Gavan Duffy himself tells this story: An artist named Cromley painted his portrait and bestowed on him a dreamy poetic face which might have passed for Shelley's. The portrait was shown to Daniel O'Connell by the artist in presence of Duffy. "I-not that very like Duffy," said Cromley. "H'm," said O'Connell, looking from the portrait to the original, "I wish Duffy was very like that."—London Star.

Digging Earthworms.

A man tells how to get earthworms without digging for them. Take a strong stick four or five feet long and sharp at one end and go to some locality, such as the back of a barn, where the worms are sure to be plentiful. Drive a stick four or five inches into the ground with a hammer or stone and then begin to twist it with a rotary motion. Every few minutes hit the top a rap to drive the point further into the ground and keep on twisting. In five minutes the worms will begin crawling out of their holes and all you have to do is to pick them up and put them in your can.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

REAL M'KINLEY PRICES.

Cost of Living Very Fallen—Wages Have Risen Under the McKinley Tariff.

Of course you remember the great campaign of lying in 1890, when the Democratic hirelings from one end of the land to the other proclaimed (beginning before the ink of the president's signature to the new tariff was yet dry) that prices of manufactures were "mounting skyward" because of the new measure. They enlisted the services of unscrupulous tradesmen, who, for the sake of temporary gain no less than for political effect, exacted from their customers the excessive prices made possible by the Democratic "McKinley prices" hullabaloo. And peddlers were even hired to go about offering tinware and other household utensils at fabulous prices, with instructions to say that such prices were made necessary by the "McKinley bill." The election, occurring less than a month after the new measure took effect, allowed the people no opportunity to discover the truth before voting, and the result was the great triumph of lying and the election of the present free trade majority to the lower house of congress.

When after election, the people began to learn that prices instead of being higher, were actually lower, as a rule, than before the new tariff, the free traders dropped the prices question and took another tack. They started in asserting that wages were falling and have kept up their assertions to this effect incessantly down to the present writing. They considered themselves safe from conviction here because of the known difficulty of gathering wages statistics for the whole county. But this lie, also, has now been run to earth.

The senate committee, appointed soon after the passage of the McKinley measure, to investigate its effects on prices and wages, have just reported the following results:

During the twenty-eight months from June 1, 1889, to Sept. 1, 1891 (the act took effect Oct. 6, 1890), the average retail prices of twenty one articles of common consumption among the people declined .04 per cent.; wholesale prices of the same articles declined .33 per cent.; prices of agricultural products advanced 18.67 per cent., and wages advanced on the average .75 per cent.

This is the result obtained and unanimously accepted by Senators Aldrich, Allison, Hiscock and Jones, for the Republicans; Senators Harris and Carlisle, for the Democrats. The details of the investigation were conducted by Carroll D. Wright, commissioner of the department of labor at Washington, D. C., Gen. Francis A. Walker, Prof. Henry C. Adams, Edward Atkinson, Prof. Edmund J. James, and Williamson Grosvenor. Of the assistants, the first is independent on the tariff question; the next three are free traders, and the last two are protectionists. All are men of unquestioned probity and of world-wide reputation as economists and statisticians.

We have eliminated the Pacific states from this comparison because of the abnormal conditions, such as the extreme scarcity of labor, existing in those commonwealths. Considering the sections given in our table we find that wages are highest in the eastern states, which are essentially manufacturing communities.

Continuing through the middle and western states, wages gradually fall, being lowest in the south, the section most distinctly agricultural. The same result is shown in the comparison between wages in individual states.

States.	Wages.
Massachusetts	$29.70
Rhode Island	28.00
Iowa	28.30
Minnesota	28.10
South Carolina	12.50

From the figures given we readily perceive that wages of farm laborers are higher or lower, according as the country in question is more or less a manufacturing section. This is a natural consequence of placing the farm and the factory together, for the market developed by the latter for the products of the former not only results in higher prices for those products, but also, and through these higher prices, in higher wages for the workingmen producing them. Thus we have another demonstration of the beneficent effect on agriculture of our protective policy.

A Deadly Parallel from History.

The tariff of 1890 was by no means the first in our history to prove the utter unreliability of free trade predictions of evils to come upon the country under its operation.—Here, for instance, is a quotation from our old free trade friend, the New York Evening Post, of July, 1824, relative to the famous protective tariff act of that year. We place beside it the simple statement of the facts revealed by eight years' actual experience under that tariff, as made by Henry Clay in a speech in the senate, 1832:

Pass the tariff as reported by the committee and you palsy the nation. Pass it, and where will you any longer find occupants for your costly piles of stores and dwelling houses? Pass it, and who will be exempt from its grinding operation? The poorer classes, especially, must feel its effect in paying an additional price for every article of clothing they and their families wear, and every mouthful they eat or drink, save cold water; and to that will they ere long be reduced.—New York Evening Post, July, 1824.	On a general survey we behold cultivation extended; the arts flourishing; the face of the country improved; our people fully and profitably employed; the public countenance exhibiting tranquility, contentment and happiness; its public debt of two wars nearly redeemed; and, to crown all, the public treasury overflowing. If the term of seven years were to be selected of the greatest prosperity which this people has enjoyed since the establishment of their present constitution, it would be exactly that period of seven years which immediately followed the passage of the tariff of 1824.—Henry Clay, speech in the senate, 1832.

All he Got Through the Experiment.

The Green Bag.

A small Scotch boy was summoned to give evidence against his father, who was accused of making disturbances in the streets. Said the bailie to him, "Come, my wee mon, speak the truth, and let us know all ye ken about this affair."

"Weel, sir," said the lad, "d'ye ken Inverness street?"

"I do, laddie," replied his worship.

"Weel, ye gang along it, and turn into the square, and cross the square——"

"Yes, yes," said the bailie, encouragingly.

"An' when ye gang across the square, ye turn to the right and up into High street, and keep on up High street till you come to a pump."

"Quite right, my lad, proceed," said his worship. "I know the old pump well."

"Weel," said the boy, with the most in[nocent] simplicity, "ye may gang and pump it, for ye'll no pump me."

A CLEAR CASE.

It has been proven beyond all question of a doubt that Oregon Kidney Tea will cure all cases kidney and urinary troubles, pains in the back, diabetes, inflammation of the bladder, nervousness and all complaints arising from a diseased or debilitated state of the kidneys or urinary organs of either sex.

The drinking of alkali or impure water will in time weaken and derange the urinary organs of the strongest constitutions, bringing on a diseased condition that may in time prove disastrous, but this evil effect of bad water or change of climate may be counteracted by the use of Oregon Kidney Tea. It is pleasant to take, and a trial will convince you of its merits.

DAILY WEATHER RECORD

[illegible weather table]

Mr Peter Schmitt has gone on a visit to his parents in St Joseph.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to Otto B Yetchker and Miss Jessie C Neahaus, both of Davenport Ia.

There will be a meeting of the Crowell Hose company for the transaction of important business this evening at 8 o'clock.

All members of Colorado Springs Wheelmen are requested to meet at Henry Weber's office this evening at 8 o'clock.

A pulley on the connecting shaft at the Rapid Transit power house broke Sunday night and the cars were tied up over the [illegible].

Rev J. F Lucas, pastor of the Christian church, has resigned. A meeting of the church will be held next Sunday to take action on his resignation.

Mr Lester R. Bridaham who has been a resident of this city for several years left last evening for Council Bluffs, Ia., where he will be head clerk at the Grand Mr E. F Clark's hotel.

A man named George Erickson, said to have a brother here was killed near Butte, Mont., yesterday. Postmaster Everleth would be glad to receive any information as to any of his relatives.

A man who was drunk in a Huerfano street restaurant and who drew a knife on a companion, was fined $20 and costs in the police magistrate's court yesterday. Four citizens who left their horses unhitched paid the penalty of their carelessness in fines of one dollar and costs each.

Colorado Springs is to have a rival in the struggle for the possession of the proposed Pythian Home, in Brighton, Col., whose Knights of Pythias are already hard at work to secure the home. The matter will be discussed at the Grand Lodge session which begins in Manitou to-day.

The Cripple Creek Crusher is vigorously fighting the overcapitalization of mining companies, thinking that from $200,000 to $300,000 is enough capital for a prospect hole to start off with. It prints an alphabetical list of 161 companies now operating in that district and thinks that that is enough for a camp to start with.

On and after Monday, Sept 19, no books will be given out at the free library until the building is moved. Any persons having deposits can secure the same by calling at the rooms before the above date. Those who have books out are requested to return them this week as it is uncertain how long the library will be closed.

Mr. Guy E. Smith has obtained leave of absence from John A Logan Camp, Sons of Veterans, and leaves to-day for Washington, D C., to attend the G. A R grand encampment and participate in the great Sons of Veterans parade. He will then attend Drury College at Springfield, Mo. His aunt, Miss Emma Wilson, accompanies him to Washington.

It has been discovered that the 16 inch water main which supplies the greater part of the city runs on Huerfano street directly under the line of the piers on the south side of the viaduct. A special meeting of the city council was held yesterday afternoon and it was decided to leave the matter in the hands of the water committee and the consulting engineer, Mr Bland. The main will probably be arched over with brick so that the foundation will not settle and break it. The extra cost will be about $600.

The Antlers souvenir spoon is the latest fad, too much of a fad for Mr. Barnett to endure with complacency. It is a plain silver spoon, with the name of the hotel stamped on the handle, and it is served with the after dinner coffee. In the past two weeks some of the transient guests have been putting them in their pockets to remember the hotel by, until now at least two dozen are gone. Mr Barnett kept his good nature until last night, when a silver teapot disappeared, but now he wants the blood of the man who started The Antlers souvenir silverware fad.

The committee of the Cigarmakers International union who were here looking over the ground with a view to a site for a cigarmakers' home left yesterday for Monte Vista where they will inspect a proposed site. They are very much impressed with this city and are very favorably inclined with the idea of locating here. There were quite a number of people in town who would have liked to have met the committee but failed because they were here on Sunday. The committee will return to-morrow and persons who would like to see them can make arrangements through Mr George E. Zackular, with Voss & Co.

A Busy Young Man.

Mr H D Murgarditenyan who conducted a very successful sale of Turkish rugs about two weeks ago in this city in spite of the drawbacks he encountered on account of another art sale and the absence of many leading residents has been busily at work in Denver ever since he left here and has transformed one of the largest stores in that city into a palatial art center with the best products of the Orient. Over seventy bales of Turkish rugs have been used to make the finest display ever witnessed in this country. This grand collection will be offered under the auctioneer's hammer. The display is worthy of a special visit.

The Sons to the Front

At its meeting two weeks ago, John A Logan camp Sons Veterans determined to hold a camp fire last evening inviting Colorado Springs Post No. [illegible] G A R. At their camp fire were gathered a fair representation of members of the post and a large number of Sons. Among the veterans in attendance was Colonel Heron, commander of the post who related some interesting army experiences. Capt. B G Robbins presided and Brothers C H Corman, G S Milone, C F V Van Why, Guy E Smith, J D. Custer, W. S. Hoyt F H Maynard, Ed L. Feltwell C N Wheeler and C J Graham joined in executing a programme of unusual interest and excellence. At the close hard tack and coffee, pork and beans were partaken of with a relish. All felt well repaid for an evening's attendance at the camp's first camp fire. John A Logan camp is in quite a flourishing condition.

Alexander Salvini.

Alexander Salvini opened his season very auspiciously in Louisville, Ky, last week. One of the largest and most fashionable audiences ever in Macauley's theater greeted him in his magnificent production of Don Caesar de Bazan. His forthcoming tour of the Pacific slope is likely to be even more successful than his eastern tours. He has been seen in San Francisco as a member of A M Palmer's company, but never as a star. His successful revival of the romantic drama will be welcome on the coast, as the Californian theater goer is as fond of the bloodstirring pictures from the days of chivalry as his brother in the east. He loves to hear the clank of swords and to hear a truly chivalrous dispute. But they like to see those who endeavor to portray such scenes able to carry their swords with courtly grace and be able to use them deftly too when occasion occurs, and they like to see them look the heroes their speech implies.

Alexander Salvini has the physique, the manly bearing and native eloquence that these roles require and from what the eastern critics say he enacts them as no one has done since the days of Charles Fechter. He will appear at the opera house this coming season.
